

Heavenly Shopping at Angel Street Thrift

Angel Street Thrift Shop might just make you reconsider your favorite bargain go-to store...

Featuring everything from housing goods to designer clothing, you can find whatever you need at Angel Street. Walk in and you'll see an array of clothing organized by color so you won't have to muddle with all the confusion of messy racks.

Some steals I found were a red peplum top, a set of silverware – at 50 cents a piece! – and a new season of Hung on DVD. That about covered my weekend of going out, staying in, and feeding myself to keep on keeping on.

Angel Thrift sells a wide array of books and TV shows that are actually up to date, including Sex and the City, Entourage, a good chunk of the Sherlock Holmes series, and even some New York Time's bestsellers if you dig deep enough through the shelves.

Not only will you be assuring your parents that you've got your rent under control after shopping at Angel Street, but you can feel good about contributing to a good cause as well. Proceeds from their sales go to benefit programs for people suffering from substance abuse, mental illness, and HIV/AIDS. It's a good deed that will keep your apartment and your person looking sharp and (almost) fresh as new!

118 W 17th St
(b/w 7th Ave & Avenue Of The Americas)
New York, NY 10011
Neighborhood: Chelsea

(212) 206-0859

-Emily Harris